

Ten reasons to join the Executive Round Table:

1. You will get the support you need to redefine your role in your company and develop your vision.
2. You will get advice from peers who understand your situation because they have been there.
3. You will get help month after month, to make the decisions necessary to lead your company to where you want it to be.
4. Your fellow members will open your eyes to new alternatives and opportunities and hold you accountable.
5. Your frank discussions with people not beholden to you will help determine what you need to adjust in your managerial and organizational approach.
6. You will view things from a broader perspective as you learn about the challenges of your fellow members' businesses.
7. You will think more creatively about your business problems and how to solve them through "cross-fertilization of ideas" with fellow members.
8. You will learn new techniques and skills for problem solving from being part of an exclusive corporate think tank.
9. You will develop a stronger network.
10. You will have your own Board of Advisors!
